Introduction

By 1939 the bus body number series which London Transport had inherited from the LGOC had reached beyond the 18000 mark and the lowest numbers therein referred to bodies built for motor buses before the Great War. With subsequent orders for new vehicles it was likely that this original series could run to figures close to and even beyond 30000. (Note that trams & trolleybuses did not carry body numbers in the same sense as motor buses.) At this point it was decided to begin a completely new series starting from 1 again and the first eighty seven numbers were allocated to the bodies built for TF class vehicles which were delivered between March and July of 1939. The bonnet numbers for these followed on from the prototype which had a body numbered in the old series. Further vehicles of the CR, TF, STD, STL & RT classes also received bodies numbered in the new series but they were the only classes which had a foot in both camps and only the STL & STD classes had more than one body with numbers in both series'. For the record, the prototypes of the CR, TF & RT classes received the old series body numbers 18001, 18075 & 18246 respectively and they are the only vehicles of these classes whose body details are not included in this publication. As with the earlier series, float bodies were provided, but nothing like on the same scale. The net total of float bodies in this series was fifteen RT8/2 bodies built right at the end of the production run for RT family vehicles. They were at first mounted on slave SRT chassis to facilitate their movement when required. By the end of overhauls of the RT family there had been fifteen corresponding bodies surplus to requirements, eight of which had suffered severe accident damage at various times. The fifteen were - 3647, 3865, 4821, 4824, 4826, 5394, 5432, 5434, 6277, 6726, 7065, 7090, 9051, 9211 & 9222. All were either dismantled at Aldenham or, in the case of 4821, 4824, 4826, 5432, 6277, 5394 and 7090, sold for scrap to the Rees Iron & Steel Salvage Co. Ltd., Abbotswood Gardens, Clayhall, Ilford wef 24th May 1968. The final bonnet numbers carried by these 15 bodies were RT 1347, 461, 2433, 1558, 1556, 1804, 2084, 3958, 2883, 2102, 4186, 907, 4358, 549 & 2319 respectively all of which identities were subsequently carried by bodies 5474, 8918, 3890, 6811, 5614, 6754, 5450, 3889, 7018, 6788, 7238, 6765, 6395, 6256 & 7320. Bodies 4404, 4405, 4407, 4410, 4416 & 4417 have been previously shown erroneously as float bodies. They were built against existing chassis orders but were used to replace older bodies which had been removed from RT chassis for repair. Though they were effectively used as float bodies they were not ordered as such because the older bodies were re-used to body the six new chassis which latterly materialised as RT 2116 - 2121 thus maintaining the balance between body and chassis orders.

In the two summaries, the codes given are those allocated when new but general details of any subsequent alteration of codings are given in the footnotes to the summaries and in the section headings for each batch of bodies. The bonnet numbers applicable to each body are letter coded according to their livery and details of these are also given in the section headings. In particular it should be noted that the utility bodies of the B, D & G classes were painted in various non-standard liveries and notes of these are given in the section headings where the livery variation occurs. Dates of re-paint into standard fleet livery are given for most of the utility bodies but, with the exception of those delivered in grey livery, none of these are gleaned from official sources as no records of re-paints other than those originally in grey livery were kept by London Transport. Though the variety of liveries used on these utility bodies was not considered acceptable by London Transport it was clear that a programme of re-painting could only take place if paint supplies were to improve dramatically and under the circumstances the Board did the next best thing and an edict was passed down to all departments to re-paint buses into fleet livery as soon as supplies of paint became available. For this reason details of the majority of utility body re-paints are largely based on the personal observations of members of the PSV circle and often these are the dates that the re-paint was reported and not necessarily the date that it was carried out. What is clear is that a substantial number of utility bodies were re-painted before and after visiting Chiswick or Aldenham for overhaul. It is unlikely that a true picture will emerge after so long a time lapse and, therefore, these dates are the most accurate information that is likely to be available.

As is to be expected, the majority of bodies included in this series were built for the RT family with a total for the three classes, RT, RTL & RTW, amounting to 6820 bodies. Add to this the 700 Metro-Cammell bodies built for the RF class and it is clear that the greater part of the list is taken up by standardised vehicles of the RT family though, at the very end of the list, the first two prototype Routemasters get a look in and thus the series spans three generations of London buses.

The very high degree of standardisation among the RT family means that, in theory, any RT body was capable of being fitted on any RT or RTL chassis, with the obvious exception of the 8' wide RT6 coded bodies of the RTW class. At an early stage it was discovered the Metro-Cammell RTL bodies (RT7) would not be interchangeable on 7'6" chassis and all these bodies remained on the RTL chassis that they were built for, though there were a large number of interchanges within what later became the 1/7RT7 sub class. The Cravens bodies were returned to their original chassis after their one and only LT overhaul. The mountings of these bodies were, supposedly, of the standard type and, in theory, this would have made them interchangeable. However, after the first six pilot and very lengthy overhauls of the type they were declared non standard and were earmarked for early withdrawal, some of their replacements being gleaned from among the number of surplus new RTs stored since 1954. With hindsight it is not too surprising that the Cravens RTs were withdrawn early as the spares holding for body parts would have been quite high in proportion to the number of bodies and this would have made their continued operation economically 'non-viable' in modern parlance.

The Saunders bodies (RT3/3) had standard mountings and were interchanged among AEC chassis throughout their lives and apart from the actual body framing all other body parts were identical to those of other RT bodies. Their downswept cab front panels prevented them being fitted to RTL chassis but, ironically, many Saunders bodies received the later type of cab front panel when this was standardised as a spare part for replacement in the event of accident damage etc. Whether they would have actually fitted on to RTL chassis must remain a matter for conjecture unless someone can come up with concrete evidence that proves the case.

All other bodies of RT3/1, RT8, RT8/1, RT8/2, RT9 & RT10 could be fitted to RT or RTL chassis and had the upswept cab front panel as built. Body 1936 as fitted to RTL 501 was the first roof box body to have the later cab front and this body was later re-classified from RT3 to RT10 even though it remained on chassis 7003 throughout its life and it was the only roof box RTL to have the deep canopy valance and route number holder on the n/s front window pillar.

The body of SRT 1 was taken from a batch of RT3/1 bodies and this was the only SRT body to have that distinction as all the others were from RT8 batches. This begs the question 'what was the classification of that body when it was placed on an RT chassis' ? It must have had universal mountings, which distinction separated the RT8 from the RT3/1, but was it officially an RT8 or an RT3/1 before and after use as SRT 1 ? Answers on the back of a £50 note to the address at the foot of the page !

In the following list each body is shown under a batch heading giving details of coding and livery etc. Each individual body is shown with the first and all subsequent bonnet numbers that it carried. The approximate month and year of delivery is given and all subsequent dates are those of overhaul, body change, conversion to other use or re-paint. Where a change of livery was made other than at overhaul this date is shown, as are re-paints in the same livery. Full dates are not given here as they can be found among the individual class histories.

There was for some time conflicting evidence regarding the Park Royal body numbers for bodies 9113 to 9171. These have been quoted as having Park Royal body numbers L3222 to L3280 and the fifteen float bodies, 9172 to 9186, as having Park Royal body numbers L3207 to L3221. The delivery dates of these bodies suggested, however, that the correct sequence was that 9113 to 9176 carried the Park Royal numbers L3207 to L3280 in sequence. However evidence kindly supplied by Nicholas King has verified that the correct sequence of numbers is 9113 to 9171 - L3222 to L3280 & 9172 to 9186 L3207 to L3221.

As noted, the first two Routemaster prototypes were originally allocated body numbers in this series, but these were later renumbered as B1 and B2, forming the start of a new series for the Routemasters. It may be the case that, three years later, it was in order to avoid an interruption in the Routemaster sequence that the three RWs were allocated body numbers at the end of the second series. After that, the following sequences were issued: A1-88 (XA 1-50, XF 1-8, RC 1-14, XMS 1-6, XMB 15, XMS 7-14, FRM 1), B1-2760 (Routemasters) C16-665 (MB/MBA/MBS 16 - 665), D1-2646 (DMS/DM/D 1 - 2646). E1-823 (SM/SMS 1-823), in each case in sequence with the bonnet numbers as shown. The two London Country batches, SM 101-148 & SM 449-538 were allocated their appropriate body numbers in the E series but it is not certain whether the second batch ever carried them. When the RMAs were absorbed into the LT fleet they were not allocated LT body numbers but were referred to by their Park Royal body numbers. The two RM float bodies were allocated the numbers 9985 & 9986 as part of a planned float of 15 for the RM class which were to have carried the numbers 9985 - 9999 at the end this body series. Details of these are included here but are not accounted for in the general summaries. In the event, it was decided that with reduced orders for Routemasters, such a large float of spare bodies was not needed. Subsequent vehicles delivered to LT and its successors have never been allocated body numbers.

As with any work of this kind the gestation period has been rather lengthy but after more than fifty years of research and reams of paper I am pleased to say that things have come together at last. There are a number of people without whose able assistance this work could not have been near to completion and my thanks go out to Lawrie Bowles, Les Hampton, Brian Wright, Nicholas King, John Marshall, Maurice Bateman and members of the PSV Circle who have all given a great deal of help with some quite obscure information. Mention must also be made of the late John Hambley without whom the present series of publications would not have been published at all. John published this series of books under the title Transport Interests Publications, listing the vehicle histories of many of the classes of London Transport buses covered in this book, including most recently the RT class in five volumes. This book forms the next publication in that series, and following the sad loss of John, I am pleased that the London Historical Research Group is able to continue his good work. Many of the Transport Interests books are still available, for example from LOTS (www.lots.org.uk).

I hope that the both the general reader and transport historian will get as much enjoyment and enlightenment out of this work as I have in compiling it. Finally, if you discover any errors or omissions tell us - if not tell your friends.

Notes

- (a) - Later re-coded RT10 when given universal mountings to fit either RT or RTL chassis
- (b) - Later re-coded RT3/I (4487) ? or RT8 (The rest) when removed from SRT chassis and fitted to RT chassis'
- (c) - Later re-coded RF1/3 when modified for Green Line use
- (d) - Bodies from these batches variously re-coded RF2/4, RF2/5, RF2/6, RF5, RF5/I, RF5/2, RF5/3, RF5/4, RF5/5, RF5/6 & RF5/7

Various RT bodies of both RT8 & RT8/2 types were modified for Green Line work and re-coded RT8/I. Most later reverted to their original codings. L & W series numbers in brackets are, respectively, the Park Royal & Weymann manufacturers body numbers. A few Weymann bodies from the two batches marked with * have out of sequence Weymann body numbers due to minor re-arrangement of orders.

(c) - Most 3RT chassis' later re-coded 1/3RT, 2/3RT or 3/3RT
(d) - Some chassis' later re-coded 1/7RT & 3/7RT
(e) - All chassis' converted from 15STL
(f) - All chassis' converted from 4/9STL
(g) - Older STL chassis' with new bodies

In addition to the above standard types, twelve vehicles acquired from two other operators are included in this series of body numbers. These are clearly noted in the main body number list. The chassis were of the following makes :- Bedford (2), Dennis (6), Tillings Stevens/TSM (1), Thorneycroft (2) & Ford (1).

SUMMARY

Chassis built - 9,374 (9,362 built plus 12 acquired vehicles)
Bodies built - 9,230 (Sequence total 9,232 less numbers 1153 & 1154 not built)
Difference - 144

The difference of 145 is accounted for as follows :-

- * The 160 SRT bodies which were used twice
- * less fifteen RT float bodies
- * less the second body (707) built for G30 which replaced body 525, destroyed by enemy action

War time uncertainty

In the light of new information supplied by Alan Cross we now know that the following STL16 bodies were returned to service from overhaul at Chiswick Tram Depot in late 1942 and early 1943 in brown and cream livery due to a shortage of pigment for red paint :-

88 (STL2544), 91 (STL2570), 92 (STL 2568), 93 (STL2571), 95 (STL2574), 97 (STL2566), 99 (STL2564), 100 (STL2567), 123 (STL2560) & 124 (STL2563)

In addition the following new STL19 bodies entered service in the same livery of brown and cream :-

462 (STL1955), 463 (STL1978), 464 (STL1959), 465 (STL1990), 466 (STL2220), 467 (STL2186), 468 (STL2232) & 469 (STL2217)

The above information comes from personal observations by Alan and others at the time and should not be considered exhaustive as there may have been others that went unrecorded.

LT Series two body list

I - 75 TF2 LPTB C34F (Green Line livery. All were converted to public ambulances in September 1939 and back to Green Line coaches between 1945 and 1948 where shown with bonnet numbers in blue - * indicates an overhaul at the same time. Most were eventually downgraded to Country Bus use without a change of livery other than fleet name and this is indicated by a 'b' suffix to the bonnet number)
